

The correct operation of the RACS package under Windows 95 requires a system update. You should download the needed files from the Microsoft page by clicking on the following links and then you should execute them in the specified sequence. After installing each part of the update, you should restart your computer.

In addition, the correct operation of the RACS Remote Monitor application requires Microsoft Internet Explorer 5.0 or higher.

The required sequence of Windows 95 system updating (links to descriptions are available in English) is as follows:

1. W95Setup.exe (Windows Service Pack 1)
